ClearOne Opens Possibilities for Telehealth at ATA 2016

Cloud-based video collaboration solutions with flexible audio integration prove the perfect fit for telemedicine applications

SALT LAKE CITY, May 13, 2016 /PRNewswire/ -- ClearOne (NASDAQ: CLRO), a global provider of audio and visual communication solutions, invites visitors to ATA 2016 booth #1823 to see and experience its cloud-based video and media collaboration solutions, integrated with UC Voice products, ideally suited for telemedicine applications.

ATA is the world's largest and most comprehensive conference for telehealth, digital, connected, and mobile health; and as such, is the perfect place to learn about comprehensive - and flexible - video collaboration solutions from ClearOne. Spontania is the most powerful cloud service available, putting all the benefits of visual collaboration within anyone's reach while removing the barriers of complexity and high costs. Allowing dozens to thousands of users to collaborate in real-time, Spontania provides the platform to share high-quality voice, video and data on any device— from mobile devices to standards-based group systems.
