ClearOne to Showcase Its Unified Communications Solutions at IBM Lotusphere 2012

SALT LAKE CITY, Jan. 10, 2012 /PRNewswire/ -- ClearOne (NASDAQ: CLRO), a global communications and entertainment solutions company, today announced it will showcase its unified communications portfolio next week at IBM Lotusphere 2012 (booth #811) in Orlando, Florida. The company will feature several of its IBM® Sametime™ compatible products, as well as its recently released CHAT® headsets-the industry's most affordable enterprise-grade USB headsets on the market.

"As businesses are seeking new ways to become more social, ClearOne has expanded its UC product line to offer the only complete suite of hands-free audio solutions in the market, from the open-office or cubicle environment to the executive office, boardroom or auditorium," said Chris Wildfoerster, Vice President of Business Development. "For IBM Sametime users, ClearOne delivers an enriched UC experience which enables businesses to improve the way they collaborate and share information in any environment."

Visitors to the ClearOne booth will get a first-hand look at ClearOne's new CHAT headsets, which will make their Lotusphere debut. These headsets round out ClearOne's UC product portfolio which already includes the award-winning CHAT speakerphones, the INTERACT®-AT installed audio systems and the COLLABORATE™ all-in-one video conferencing and collaboration system.
